

Overall, preregistered expectations that “more complex societies punish more” receive limited support in these ethnographic data; instead, the comparative record suggests multiple pathways to norm regulation that do not map neatly onto a single complexity gradient.

Thank you!

---

Funding by an IAST Multidisciplinary Prize

Zach Garfield<sup>1,*,#</sup>, Grégory Fiorio<sup>2,†</sup>, Anna Kaneko Ebert<sup>3</sup>, Sophia Iben El Rhazi<sup>1</sup>, Catherine Molho<sup>4,#</sup>, Francesca De Petrillo<sup>5,#</sup>

<sup>1</sup>University Mohammed VI Polytechnic, <sup>2</sup>Ecole Normale Supérieure-Université de Paris, <sup>3</sup>Vrije Universiteit,
<sup>4</sup>Toulouse School of Economics, <sup>5</sup>Newcastle University

